A MAN WHO CHANGED AMERICA. TWICE.

"All deliberate speed" and "one man, one vote"— phrases that began the desegregation of our schools and the equalization of each American's voice in government.

Both altered our nation profoundly. Both were delivered by Earl Warren, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Tonight "Special of the Week" presents the first major national TV interview granted by the former Chief Justice. You'll meet the man who was "married to the Constitution" for 13 years, and who headed the official investigation of JFK's assassination.
